

PURPOSE AND SCOPE

The Professional Agricultural Workers Conference (PAWC) is meeting for the 67th session on December 6-8, 2009 at Tuskegee University. The PAWC serves as a forum where participants review and discuss relevant topics on improving the quality of rural life for people in the South and the nation in general. This year's theme is "The Color of Wealth in the Green Economy: Best Practices, Programs and Policies."

The PAWC is hosted by Tuskegee University and supported by the Farm Foundation, USDA agencies (ERS, NRCs, CSREES, FSA, FS, FAS, APHIS), USDI/NPS, USAID, the Southern Rural Development Center, USDI, COSBAE/AAEA, and 1890 Land-grant Institutions. The major activities of the PAWC include the following:

- A plenary session to introduce the general policy environment and debatable issues as related to the theme of the conference;
- Workshops and work group sessions to allow exchange of ideas and hands-on experiences and to initiate actions for follow-up after the conference;
- Contributed papers for presentation (15-20 minutes each) and publication in the proceedings;
- Poster session to allow for longer exposure of applied and problem-solving research work, and exhibits that are relevant to professional agricultural workers (related papers to be published);
- The L. A. Potts Luncheon to highlight "success stories" in agriculture and rural development at the 1890 institutions and related community-based organizations;
- A conference Memorial Lecture carrying the name of an individual who, over his/her lifetime, contributed significantly at an 1890 land-grant institution or Tuskegee University.
- The George Washington Carver Public Service Hall of Fame Awards for special recognition of individuals whose work mirrors the public service philosophy of Dr. Carver, i.e., of being "the greatest good to the greatest number of people."
